

ANGELL FINE ARTS, LTD.

Fall Newsletter 2010

Each year brings new challenges and growth. I am so pleased to have the opportunity to explore and discover more about creativity. I am knee-deep in printmaking, specifically solarplate printing. You all might say "what is Ruth into now?" Well, I can tell you that I haven't been this excited about an art process in a very long time, 33 years to be exact! While at URI, I spent a great deal of time in the studio producing lithographic prints and loved it. In fact, that was my passion with photography coming second. Now I am able to combine both in an incredible process producing solarplate prints. I invite all of you to come to my art opening at the Providence Art Club, October 31st from 2 - 4:00 in the afternoon. If you are unable to attend the show you are welcome to visit the Dodge House Gallery at the Providence Art Club until November 17th to see the show. Please visit www.ProvidenceArtClub.org to find the gallery hours of operation and directions.

DESIGN

Another passion of mine is design. Of course I am limited to what I can do and I am so lucky to have Sarah Gibbs as part of Angell Fine Arts. Sarah is studying Graphic Design at the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. Sarah brings a love of balance and color; text, and her ability to work with concepts and clients. We are branching off into design and branding for small and medium-sized businesses. If you need a concept or an update of your current brand, please ask for our help. We have wonderful ideas and a world of knowledge to help you solve those marketing problems.

My son Alex is also part of the Angell team. If he is not racing on a sail boat around different parts of the world (right now he is in France with the Mumm 30 Worlds), he is in the studio working out technical problems and now web problems. Alex is concentrating on social networking such as Ad Words and web content. Alex can help enhance that part of your marketing plan.

I am also enjoying spending time with your families telling your stories using photography. We have created some extraordinary albums this year and framed family portraits. I am enjoying the fall colors and having this background to enhance your images. It is also very important to me to capture your families when they are home for the holidays. It is great fun to spend time with you in your homes. What a great way to relax. Please call to reserve your time for these special family moments.

I continue to have the pleasure of teaching part time at Rocky Hill School. What an extraordinary place, great campus, wonderful staff and exceptional students. In addition, I have begun to offer classes at Angell Fine Art. You will see some new classes in the Spring - Please let me know if you are interested.

Our community is so important to me. I have spent quite a bit of time with my favorite nonprofits, my most favorite being Community Prep School. Keep your eyes out for their graduates this year, they are successful young people.

The Hearthside Home in Lincoln, RI is another favorite nonprofit of mine and is part of a book being released in November on homes and manors decorated for the holidays. The book, "Christmas at Historic Houses", has photographs taken by me as part of a volunteer project. It was very exciting. You can purchase the book at Hearthside Home, 677 Great Rd, Lincoln, RI; or on their website, www.hearthsidehouse.org.

Last but not least, The Rhode Island Blood Center has me as the incoming artist for their Passport Program in 2011. Their premier donors will receive a piece of my art work. I am very proud to be a part of their family and to support their cause.
